Warrants Out for Chalabis

Ex-Pentagon favorite, nephew charged with crimes in Iraq

BAGHDAD | Iraq has issued arrest warrants for Ahmad Chalabi, a former Governing Council member with strong U.S. ties, on counterfeiting charges, and for his nephew Salem Chalabi — head of the tribunal trying Saddam Hussein — on murder charges, Iraq's chief investigating judge said Sunday.

"They should be arrested and then questioned and ... if there is enough evidence, they will be sent to trial," Judge Zuhair al-Maliki said.

The warrant was the latest strike against Ahmad Chalabi. A longtime Iraqi exile opposition leader, he had been a favorite of many in the Pentagon but fell out with the Americans in the weeks before the U.S. occupation ended in June.

Both men denied the charges, dismissing them as part of a political conspiracy.

Salem Chalabi, named as a suspect in the June murder of Haithem Fadhil, head of the finance ministry, called the accusation "ridiculous." His uncle said the charges were "outrageous" and "manufactured lies."

The men were out of the country Sunday but promised to return to Iraq to face the allegations. "I'm now mobilized on all fronts to rebuff all these charges," Ahmad Chalabi told CNN from Tehran, Iran, where he was attending a conference. "Nobody's above the law, and I submit to the law in Iraq."

In Washington, the Bush administration had no comment about the charges against the Chalabis. "This is a matter for the Iraqi authorities to resolve," said White House spokeswoman Suzy DeFrancis.

If convicted, Salem Chalabi, 41, could face the death penalty, al-Maliki said. His uncle, who is in his late 50s, would face a sentence determined by judges. JAMIE TARABAY (AP)

CRIME | Toe Taboo Unsolicited toe-licking could become a federal offense in the Netherlands if the country's Labor Party has its way. Dutch police have been unable to prosecute a man who, for the past three years, allegedly has been sneaking up on female sun-

It's a long, strange trip for the soccer ball David Beckham kicked into the crowd during an infamous Euro 2004 penalty shootout. First, Spanish fan Pablo Carral caught it and put it up for sale on eBay. It was purchased for $35,000 by Canadian casino GoldenPalace.com, sponsor of Canada's entry into a contest for private spacecraft. A new $75,000 security system installed at the Kent County Courthouse in Chestertown, Md., hasn't caught any criminals, but it did capture images of what appears to be a strange light "walking" in one stairwell. Security personnel first saw the light while looking at a surveillance tape recorded July 29. Phillip Price, a security officer, walked up the stairs and didn't see a thing. But the video monitor revealed the strange light proceeding ahead of Price, stopping when he stopped and starting when he started. "I felt a real chill, I will tell you that," Price said. Officials are still trying to find a scientific explanation. (AP)

Republican leaders in Washington state were happy to have a contender for state auditor when they accepted Will Baker's last-minute offer to challenge a popular Democrat. They didn't worry too much about who he was or how he spent his time—until they realized that a considerable amount of his time was spent in jail. Baker, a 41-year-old roadside flower salesman and self-styled political activist, has been arrested at least 19 times since 1992, mostly for refusing to stop speaking at Tacoma City Council and Pierce County Council meetings. He was last released from jail less than two months ago. Party leaders were denied requests to remove Baker from the ballot. (AP)

Terrorists' Plans Likely Disrupted

White House officials say recent efforts may have undermined plots

WASHINGTON | The Bush administration believes it has undermined al Qaeda's plans for attacking the United States with the recent arrests of suspected terrorists and the seizure of detailed surveillance of financial buildings.

Presidential advisers also said Sunday they think some of the potential plots uncovered in the past week may have been part of a broader effort to strike the country before the November election.

"I certainly think that by our actions now that we have disrupted it," said Frances Fragos Townsend, President Bush's homeland security adviser, on "Fox News Sunday."

Condoleezza Rice, Bush's national security adviser, defended the administration's recent decision to issue terror warnings and tighten security in the three cities even though some of the surveillance intelligence on which the government acted dated from four years ago. Some have questioned whether the warnings were politically motivated.

"The idea that you would somehow play politics with the security of the American people — that you would not go out and warn if you have casing reports on buildings that are highly specific," Rice said on NBC's "Meet the Press." "Are you really supposed to not tell?"

Townsend and Rice said the administration was concerned that terrorists will try to disrupt the Nov. 2 election. DEB RIECHMANN (AP)

Keyes to Face Obama in Senate Race

ARLINGTON HEIGHTS, ILL. | Alan Keyes, the conservative political commentator from Maryland whom Illinois Republicans turned to after weeks of searching for a replacement Senate candidate, accepted the challenge Sunday of running against a rising Democratic star who has grown only more formidable as the state Republican Party has been mired in disarray.

"We do face an uphill battle, there's no doubt," Keyes told cheering supporters at a rally.

The Republican two-time presidential hopeful will face Democratic state Sen. Barack Obama in the campaign to replace retiring Republican Sen. Peter Fitzgerald. Keyes' entry sets up the first U.S. Senate election with two black candidates representing the major parties, and seemingly assures Illinois will produce only the fifth black senator in history.

Keyes, who has no Illinois ties, emerged as a candidate only recently, after a host of high-profile Illinois Republicans, from former Govs. Jim Edgar and James Thompson to former Chicago Bears coach Mike Ditka, declined to run.

All four suspects have been charged with first-degree murder and armed burglary, the Volusia County sheriff's department said.

Suspected ringleader Troy Victorino, 27, of Deltona, was "very guarded" during questioning, Sheriff Ben Johnson said. Three 18-year-olds were also arrested Saturday: Robert Cannon of Orange City and Jerone Hunter and Michael Salas, both of Deltona.

All four were jailed while awaiting bail hearings on Monday.

Investigators struggling to find a motive for the slayings believe the victims were killed over the theft of some clothes and an Xbox game system owned by Victorino. (AP)

Vending Machines' Fare Gets Healthy

WASHINGTON | The typical vending machine fare consists of chocolate bars and potato chips, leaving few options for people seeking low-calorie or low-salt snacks. But a new trend may bring peeled baby carrots instead of candy, or crispy baked pita bread in place of those chips.

Compass Vending Services is experimenting with a bank of food and drink machines lined up behind a plastic facade to look like a single unit. Products include granola bars, PowerBars, salads, energy drinks and smoothies.

Busy workers may want to eat healthy if they are getting something from the machine for lunch, said Bill Mitchell, Sodexo Vending's director of program development.

Of course, there still is a place for candy. People still will want "a small indulgence" as a reward, he said. IRA DREYFUSS (AP)

Top Qaeda Figure Held In Pakistan

Interior minister says terror camp chief was captured in U.A.E.

ISLAMABAD, PAKISTAN | Authorities in the United Arab Emirates captured a senior al Qaeda operative and turned him over to Pakistan, the information minister in Islamabad said Sunday.

The man, Qari Saifullah Akhtar, was secretly flown to the eastern city of Lahore, where he was being interrogated, a Pakistani intelligence official said on condition of anonymity.

Akhtar used to run a vast terror camp in Rishkhor, Afghanistan, that was visited by Osama bin Laden and Taliban chief Mullah Mohammed Omar. The camp — a sprawling complex about 10 miles south of the capital, Kabul — trained 3,500 men in combat skills, including assassination and kidnapping.

Akhtar disappeared in October 2001, before the United States started bombing Afghanistan, and had not been heard from since.

"Yes, we can confirm that we have Qari Saifullah," Information Minister Sheikh Rashid Ahmed told The Associated Press. He said Akhtar was arrested in Dubai "in the past week" and then turned over to Pakistan, but he would not give any details. Officials in Dubai had no comment. PAUL HAVEN (AP)

Allawi asks militants in Najaf to lay down arms

NAJAF, IRAQ | Protected by about 100 guards, Iraq's interim Prime Minister Ayad Allawi visited the war-shattered city of Najaf on Sunday, calling on Shiite militants to lay down their weapons after days of fierce clashes with U.S. forces.

Nearby, gunfire and explosions echoed through the streets, marking the fourth day of clashes in this holy city. Hours later, U.S. helicopter gunships pounded the massive Najaf cemetery, a militant hideout and the scene of much of the fighting, witnesses said. Military spokesmen said they were taking care to minimize damage.

The violence began Thursday after the collapse of a series of truces in early June that ended a two-month uprising. Though a deadline for militants to withdraw from Najaf expired Saturday, gunmen still patrolled the streets Sunday. And the militia for Shiite cleric Muqtada al-Sadr also controlled the Imam Ali Shrine compound, one of the most revered sites in Shiite Islam.

Allawi firmly rejected compromise with the militants. "We think that those armed should leave the holy sites and the [Imam Ali Shrine compound]," he said. "The situation will be defused soon," he added.

The cleric's aides rejected Allawi's demands. ABDUL HUSSEIN AL-OBEIDI (AP)

Apartheid Party Teams Up With ANC

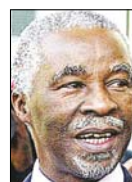

CAPE TOWN, SOUTH AFRICA | President Thabo Mbeki welcomed on Sunday a decision by the New National Party to fight all future elections under the banner of his African National Congress, a move seen as the death knell of the party that gave South Africa apartheid.

The decision was announced Saturday by Marthinus van Schalkwyk, head of the NNP — the successor to the National Party that led apartheid — at a party meeting in Johannesburg. While the NNP is not formally disbanding, van Schalkwyk said he would be joining the ANC — his party's chief foe during close to half a century of white-minority rule — within a few weeks and urged his followers to do the same.

At an event in Johannesburg, Mbeki called the decision historic.

Electorate Split in Venezuelan Polls

Massive rallies held week before election on recall of president

CARACAS, VENEZUELA | A week before a recall referendum on President Hugo Chavez's rule, supporters and opponents of the Venezuelan leader held massive events in Caracas, each side confident of victory in the emotionally-charged election.

Polls show the country is split evenly between those for and against Chavez. Supporters see him as a champion of the poor and a new hope after decades of corrupt governments, while opponents accuse him of seeking to install a communist dictatorship.

"In seven days, Venezuelans will have a chance to stop the demon of intolerance, division, unemployment and hunger," said opposition leader Enrique Mendoza.

Tens of thousands of Chavez's followers marched with signs saying "No" to the recall and "Ahead with the Revolution."

To be recalled, more citizens must vote against Chavez than the nearly 3.8 million who re-elected him in 2000. If they succeed, elections will be held in 30 days and the winner will finish Chavez's term.

Chavez, who survived a brief coup in 2002, accuses Washington of backing the effort to oust him. The United States, which is Venezuela's main oil buyer, denies the claims. Relations between the two countries have been strained by Chavez's ties with Cuba and his criticism of U.S.-backed free market proposals. (AP)

Russian Parliament Votes to Overhaul Soviet-Era Benefits

MOSCOW | Russia's upper house of parliament approved a controversial social reform bill Sunday that ends an array of Soviet-era benefits, including free transportation and medicine, for some of Russia's most vulnerable people, including World War II veterans.

The bill, which sparked protests in Moscow and around the nation, replaces many of the benefits with monthly payments ranging from $5.10 to $53. It could affect an estimated 30 million people.

The Federation Council, which usually rubber-stamps legislation for the Kremlin, approved the legislation 156-5. The lower house of parliament approved the measure Thursday. It now goes to President Vladimir Putin for his signature.

The government says the move will be a boon to many and will make more accurately target aid. But many recipients were outraged. A small group of about 50 protesters on Sunday carried placards reading, "Hands off veterans' benefits!"

WHO KNEW? Russia's upper house of parliament on Sunday approved a bill that will put tough restrictions on beer ads. Under the measure, brewers won't be able to advertise on TV or radio from 7 a.m. to 10 p.m. At other times, ads won't be allowed to show humans, animals or cartoon characters or imply that beer is tied to social or athletic success. Advertisers also can't imply that it quenches thirst. Now it goes to President Vladimir Putin for his signature. (AP)

Trial to Start for Bull Run Student

WASHINGTON | A 12-year-old boy accused of bringing weapons into his Gainesville, Va., school is expected to go on trial in a Prince William County juvenile courtroom this week.

An Oct. 6 trial date has already been set for his mother, Naomi Lewis, who's facing a charge of possessing a firearm on school

She was working at Bull Run Middle School, where on the last day of classes in June, her son allegedly came with two rifles and a shotgun.

Police have said when Lewis arrived at school, she found the weapons and ammunition; but she locked them away inside a vehicle, thinking they'd be safe.

Investigators say the boy used a spare key to open the vehicle and retrieve the guns. (AP)

Q Will Metro be installing more SmarTrip machines in their stations? The lines are usually quite long.

A Not anytime soon. But there may be some relief, if you know where to find it. There has been a massive spike recently in the number of SmarTrip users, and with it, longer lines. But there aren't plans to add more machines at stations, a Metro spokeswoman said. Starting this week, though, all buses should be equipped with SmarTrip fare boxes. You can use those to add fare, but only with cash. Metro's also exploring the possibility of letting riders buy fare cards at large chain grocery stores and commuter stores, she said. Jeff Gordon joined the heroes of his youth Sunday with a fourth win in the Brickyard 400. The driver who spent his teen years living within 25 miles of the Indianapolis Motor Speedway, made history, joining open-wheel stars A.J. Foyt, Al Unser and Rick Mears as four times winners at the historic track. The four-time series champion led 124 of the 161 laps, but still had to fend off Dale Jarrett in a pair of late restarts. Heading South for Season, Blue Jays Fire Manager

Toronto Blue Jays manager Carlos Tosca was fired Sunday and replaced by first-base coach John Gibbons. Agassi Ends Long Drought

Andre Agassi ended a 16-month title drought when he beat Lleyton Hewitt 6-3, 3-6, 6-2 in the final of the Cincinnati Masters on Sunday. Agassi, who knocked out defending champion Andy Roddick on Saturday, completed his 59th career victory — the most of any active player — when Hewitt committed his fifth double fault on Agassi's second match point. "It's pretty amazing, it couldn't come at a better time for me," Agassi said. (AP)

Quarterbacks Off to a Rough Start

Brunell scheduled to start when Redskins play Broncos Monday

REDSKINS | As he approaches his first preseason game in 12 years, Washington Redskins coach Joe Gibbs has a stock answer when evaluating his team's first few practices in training camp.

"Kind of rough, that's the best way to describe it," he said.

That accurately describes the quarterbacks' play.

The competition between Mark Brunell, who the Redskins traded for in the offseason, and Patrick Ramsey is the most closely watched position battle in camp. Neither has distinguished himself so far.

Mark Brunell will start Monday night's Hall of Fame Game against the Denver Broncos. The 11-year veteran says no one should expect to see regular-season crispness in the first preseason game.

going to be all right."

Ramsey will play against the Broncos but not start until the next game, Aug. 14 at home against Carolina.

Ponson Leads Orioles To 6th Straight Victory

Baltimore moves to within 5 games of .500 with 11-5 win

BASEBALL | The same fans that jeered Sidney Ponson during the first half of the season gave the right-hander a standing ovation as he walked off the mound.

If he and the Orioles keep performing as they did Sunday, Baltimore fans will have plenty more to cheer the rest of the season.

Melvin Mora went 3-for-5 with a homer and four RBIs to back a strong pitching performance by a rejuvenated Ponson, and the Orioles beat Kenny Rogers and the Texas Rangers 11-5 for their season-high sixth straight victory.

Ponson (7-12) allowed three runs and five hits in 7 2/3 innings, striking out four and walking four, to improve to 7-1 lifetime against Texas. He's 4-0 in his last five starts after losing nine straight.

Asked how he felt to receive a prolonged ovation from the crowd, Ponson replied, "I have a bad game next time, they'll boo me again."

Finally playing the way they envisioned coming out of spring training, the Orioles (52-57) moved within eight games of AL wild-card leaders Texas and Boston.

"Getting to .500 is our immediate goal," manager Lee Mazzilli said. DAVID GINSBURG (AP)

U.S. Basketball Squad Struggles to Beat Turks

BASKETBALL | One week before its opener at the Athens Games, the U.S. men's Olympic team took a step backward — even though the Americans didn't quite see it that way.

The American team blew most of a 14-point fourth-quarter lead against a Turkish team missing Hedo Turkoglu, one of its two NBA players, before coming away with a 79-67 victory Sunday.

It was not an encouraging performance for the Americans, who struggled against a team that didn't even qualify for the Olympics — just as happened earlier on their European trip against Germany.

A 19-8 run narrowed Turkey's deficit to 68-65 with 3 1/2 minutes left before the U.S. team turned up its defensive pressure. "It was a good experience for us because we're going to have games like this [in Athens] when there is some adversity and they start making shots against us," coach Larry Brown said.

Tim Duncan led the U.S. with 16 points and Allen Iverson scored 13. CHRIS SHERIDAN (AP)

TRACK | Marion Jones won twice Sunday in her first competition in more than three weeks, capturing the long jump and running the second leg for a U.S. 400-meter relay team that had the best time in the world this year.

Jones helped lead the United States to victory in a meet against Germany and France.

Jones leaped 22 feet, 4 1/2 inches on her last attempt to win the long jump. The relay team, which also included Angela Williams, Lauryn Williams and LaTasha Colander, won Sunday in 41.37 seconds. (AP)

An Orange Sea for Elway

Thousands of Broncos fans pay tribute as QB joins Hall of Fame

FOOTBALL | John Elway surveyed the sea of Broncos blue and orange, heard the cheers and offered his fans a tribute.

"To all the Broncos fans out there, thank you for everything," Elway said Sunday, when he was inducted into the Pro Football Hall of Fame in Canton, Ohio. And there were thousands of them to watch Elway, Barry Sanders, Carl Eller and Bob Brown bring the Hall membership to 225.

Elway is the first Bronco inducted, and the fans chanted his name and cheered every time he was shown on the scoreboard.

He then took the stage for what was an emotional speech in which he paid tribute to his late father, Jack, his first coach, and the rest of his family; to his city; to his team; and to his teammates.

Some consider Elway to be the best quarterback ever, and many

Sanders, who rushed for more than 1,000 yards in all 10 of his seasons with the Detroit Lions before retiring at age 31, became the third-youngest Hall of Fame inductee, behind Gale

Sayers and Jim Brown.

Introduced by his father, William, as "the third-best running back who ever lived," Sanders credited his dad for "the great lesson that allowed him to be a great player." BARRY WILNER (AP)

DAISY MUST BE PROUD: Donald Duck is getting some respect. The famous hothead will be honored with a star on the Hollywood Walk of Fame to be unveiled today in front of the Disney Store, just in time for the release of the DVD-only "The Three Musketeers," starring Donald, Mickey and Goofy.

Seems Like Old Times

Ladies still love Cool James; LL Cool J still loves making music

CATCHING UP | After establishing himself as a force in hip-hop at the age of 16 with 1985's "Radio," LL Cool J became one of the first rappers to take on Hollywood, starring in films and his own TV series.

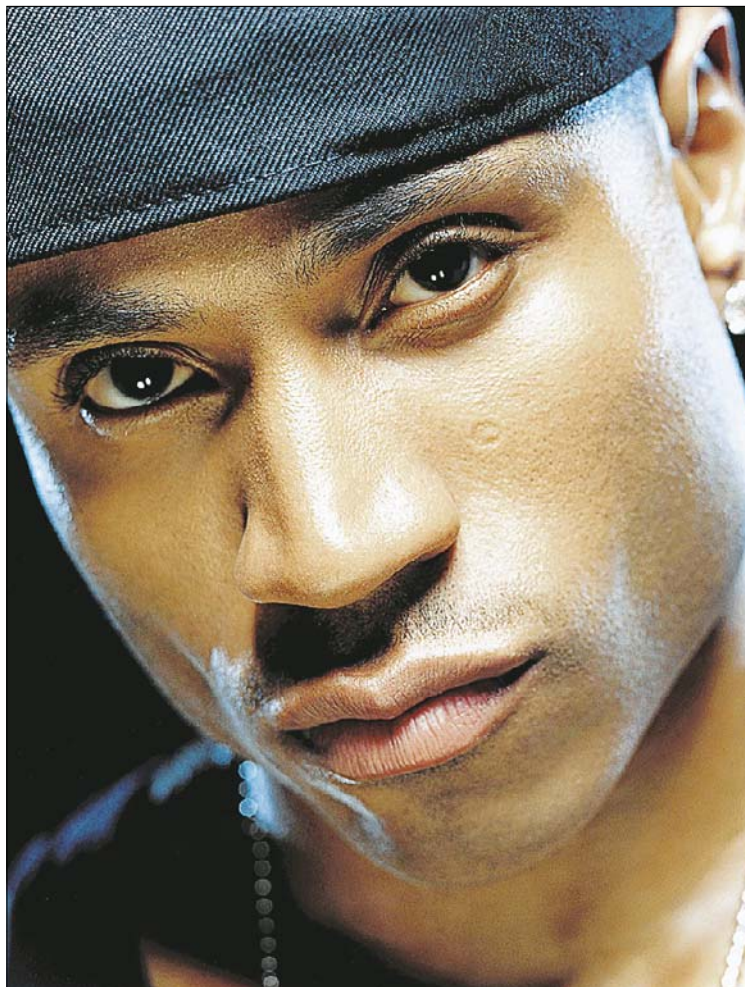

The Grammy Award-winning rapper returns this week with his 11th album, "The DEFinition," on Def Jam/IDJMG. The album features production from Timbaland, N.O. Joe and Dame Grease, among others. Already, the lead single "Headsprung" is climbing the Hot R&B/hip-hop chart.

What is the key to sustaining a career in hip-hop for as long as you have?

I'm an artist in the truest sense — from the heart. I'm not trying to keep up with anyone. That's a myth. Obviously, you have to work with the best people to make the best records, but it's not about trying to keep up or hanging on.

You were one of the first MCs to diversify.

I don't want to be in a position where I have to depend on one thing. I want to be able to express myself as an artist in a lot of different ways and be able to do a lot of different things.

What's next in your acting career?

I just wrapped a movie with Morgan Freeman, Kevin Spacey and Justin Timberlake called "Edison." It's a thriller and will probably be out next year.

What is your favorite LL Cool J album?

I'm still in the moment. I love my new album so much I can't even tell you.

Why did you decide to return to the studio?

I love what I do. That's the easiest question to answer. I had no reason not to make music and not to continue to do what I love.

Is there a concept for the new album?

I wanted to make a party record. Something that was real flavorful and new, that would be hot in the clubs. Something that was a lot of fun to listen to and people could enjoy any time.

What was the inspiration for "Headsprung"?

As a track, it has an exciting energy that just feels really right. When we were in the studio, Timbaland came in and we had the beat playing ... and we decided to get our "heads" sprung. RASHAUN HALL (BILLBOARD)

Hail the Teen Queens

'Princess Diaries 2' soundtrack isn't fit for a prince's ears

MUSIC | The only engaging songs on the soundtrack to "The Princess Diaries 2: Royal Engagement" (Disney), come from teen queen Lindsay Lohan and "American Idol" matriarch Kelly Clarkson.

The first track, "Breakaway," is an elegant display of Clarkson's vocal range, complete with a catchy chorus. It was co-written by Avril Lavigne, who also provides her "I Always Get What I Want" for the soundtrack. Lohan's "I Decide" is a rocking declaration of independence.

The second half of the CD descends into Kids Incorporated territory. Disney Channel star Christy Carlson Romano's "Let's Bounce" is particularly dreadful. "Everybody's ready to play," she cheers. "Let's bounce." Let's not and say we did, Christy.

Although most of the soundtrack features girl power, three men chivalrously provide tunes. Jesse McCartney croons about believing in yourself, Jonny Blu moans about having faith in miracles and Smashmouth's Steve Harwell chirps about having fun in the sun. But despite a few jewels, "Princess Diaries 2" isn't fit for a queen. DERRICK J. LANG (AP)

UNCORKED: Q-Burns (DJ Michael Donaldson) covers Welk's "You Can Dance."

Spiking the Champagne

Lawrence Welk goes not-so easy listening

MAKEOVERS | Strange things are happening in the Citadel of Square.

Inside the Santa Monica, Calif., headquarters of the Welk Music Group, the champagne music that bubbled in the blood of mainstream America for four decades has been alchemized into a high-energy and down-tempo soundtrack for the designer-martini generation.

In "Upstairs at Larry's: Lawrence Welk Uncorked," which comes out Tuesday, 15 of the middle-of-the-road maestro's recordings, mostly from the 1960s and '70s, have been refitted with house grooves and hip-hop shuffles, augmented with electronic squeals and echo.

Bringing this paragon of wholesomeness into contemporary club culture is akin to having a Norman Rockwell tableau repainted by Shag, and the prospect gave Welk

Music Group President Kevin Welk (Lawrence's grandson) momentary pause when the project was suggested by the company's head of new media, Rob Evanoff.

"My grandpa, whether you liked him or not, what he did back then holds a lot of value to all types of people," said the executive, 33. "But I don't think what you hear is any disrespect to what he did. We just didn't want it to be a circus. We wanted it to be legitimate and have great remixers on the project."

"I had a lot of fun doing 'Blue Velvet,'" said L.A.-based DJ Smitty, part of a remixers roster that includes Greens Keepers, Q-Burns Abstract Message, Monkey Bars and Groove Junkies. "It was a real challenge to try to figure out a way to do it justice."

Smitty, 34, remembers watching Welk's TV show as a child with his grandmother, and he appreciates the incongruity of the whole concept.

"People would ask, 'What are you working on?' and I'd say, 'I'm working on this Lawrence Welk project,' and everyone does a double-take. I love that reaction. ... But all these hip producers and underground dance guys, everyone had a great time."

What would Welk, who died in 1992, think if he were around to hear "Upstairs at Larry's"?

"He'd probably tell me, 'Kevin, I don't understand young kids today and what they're doing,'" said his grandson. "But he would appreciate that people are being exposed to him."

SENATORS TOO 'WORKY' FOR THE GUV: Gov. Arnold Schwarzenegger, appearing on "The Tonight Show With Jay Leno" Friday, downplayed his idea of creating a part-time state legislature. "It's just something I mentioned; it's just an idea," he said. "It's an issue I'll address later on."

Cruising to the Top

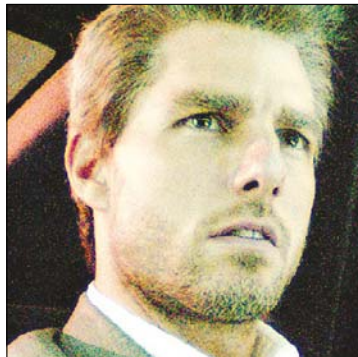

BOX OFFICE | Good guy or bad guy, Tom Cruise is still No. 1.

Cruise's "Collateral," in which he plays a psychotic hit man who hijacks a taxi for a one-night killing spree, debuted as the top weekend movie with $24.4 million, according to studio estimates Sunday.

It was an unusually dark role for Cruise, best known for playing the hero. Jamie Foxx co-stars as the cabbie, while Michael Mann ("Heat," "The Insider") directed.

"Collateral" bumped off the previous weekend's top movie, the fright flick "The Village," which took in $16.6 million, a steep 67 percent tumble from its opening-weekend

The weekend's other new wide release, the Brittany Murphy romantic comedy "Little Black Book," opened weakly in fifth place with $7 million.

While the R-rated "Collateral" did only about half the opening-weekend business of Cruise's "Mission: Impossible" movies, its debut was in line with his last two R-rated films, 2003's "The Last Samurai" ($24.3 million) and 2001's

"Vanilla Sky" ($25 million).

The shark tale "Open Water" debuted strongly with $1.04 million in just 47 theaters. The low-budget film is inspired by the true story of a couple left in shark-infested waters during a scuba-diving trip.

Michael Winterbottom's sci-fi drama "Code 46," starring Tim Robbins and Samantha Morton as lovers in a bleak future, had a solid opening of $22,000 in three theaters. DAVID GERMAIN (AP)

A Stress Test

WORKPLACE | When the government warned of a possible terrorist attack this week, it didn't take long for the phones to start ringing at EAP Consultants Inc., a Marietta, Ga., company retained by employers to counsel workers under stress.

"It's been going on chronically since 9/11 and after the alert last weekend, it just raised the tension level," said EAP Director Sandy Rosenberg. Heightened fear of terrorism is dialing up already high pressure levels in some U.S. offices and factories, further distracting people from their jobs and causing more friction between co-workers, counselors said.

Workers rarely specify or even know why they're stressed. But on-the-job tensions appear to be rising, especially in New York and other cities that have been identified as terrorist targets, because of separate but increasingly connected events.

Many companies have tightened security since Sept. 11, 2001, and have drawn up plans for dealing with such a crisis. Those efforts offer workers some reassurance, but most U.S. businesses are geared to react to actual problems. Few try to address the vague, but potentially troubling changes that can be ignited by rumors and opinions, stirring emotions most likely to cause stress, said Henry Patterson, a professor of applied psychology at Pennsylvania State University.

Stress is part of any job — the normal result of having demands placed on people over which they have limited control, Patterson said. "But you add this whole thing of terrorism threats, which virtually no one has control over, and it adds a whole other level of stress."

LIVE ONLINE

Life at Work

AMY JOYCE's column appears Sundays in The Washington Post. She chats every Tuesday at 11 a.m. on washingtonpost.com/liveonline.

How can I get around a recruiter's questions about why I want to leave my job? Why does it matter?

It sheds some light on what sort of job you want or don't want, or the sort of job in which you might be successful. An easy one is to say that you wanted to move into X field because it fit your interests better. Or you didn't think there was enough room to grow at your old job. The more silent you are about it, the more they'll think there's something up and not want to recommend you to one of their clients.

As a woman in a mostly male profession, I'm not getting the casual career development that happens over lunch, beers and golf. How do I address this very subtle discrimination?

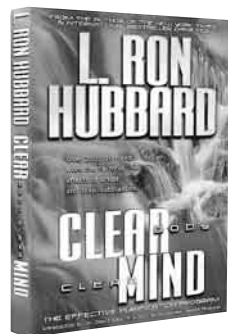

The subtle things you mention are unfortunately quite common. There are a ton of networking organizations in the area for women. I have known women (and men) to take golf lessons simply to use later as a networking tool. If you're interested in this subtle networking, try to get in on these things.

In the annals of cool, there is a small entry: "Boogie board (a.k.a. 'sponge,' 'bodyboard') noun: inferior step-brother of the surfboard; popular among awkward children and the infirm; worldwide sales of 3 million per year, dwarfing surfboards, skim boards, surf kayaks and all other wave-riding devices. One of the most popular water sports on Earth. Seriously uncool."

The sponge has won. Bodyboarders outnumber surfers almost 6 to 1, according to a study compiled by a bodyboard manufacturer. At least 100 California beaches prohibit regular surfboards along certain stretches in summer to protect floundering tourists. But their soft little cousin the bodyboard generally gets a free ride, and Target, Costco and even credible surf shops have capitulated to their popularity.

When surfer and surf product pioneer Tom Morey created the first bodyboard in 1971, he just wanted something new to ride. In those days, surfers rode standing up or, for a small and eccentric group, then, in the early '90s, it ended. Sales went flat. Team members were let go. Publications folded.

SPONGING: The Boogie board, so uncool it's cool, is now more popular than traditional surfing.

But the threat of uncool was hardly enough to end sponging. Meanwhile, bodyboarders have redefined wave culture. Spongers now career across waves from Oahu's Pipeline to Fiji.

Bodyboarding made the ocean inviting to everyone by becoming the opposite of surfing, claim enthusiasts. "Surfers are commercialized pretty boys," said Chris Monroe, 26, one-time professional boarder and now marketing manager for Morey and BZ ProBoards. "Bodyboarders are the outcasts with dyed black hair and pentagrams on the bottom of their boards. Anyone can be a bodyboarder."

kneeling. Anyone with bad balance who was unwilling to risk a head ding was out of luck.

In frustration, Morey cut a 4-foot block of the surfboard material and hit the swells in front of his home in Hawaii.

By the late 1980s, Boogie boarding was becoming almost cool. And

Capitol Security

MICHAEL LAUER, assistant public information officer for the Capitol Police, was online at washingtonpost.com/liveonline Friday and discussed traffic problems caused by street closures on Capitol Hill due to the heightened security alert.

The Capitol Police have set up more than a dozen checkpoints in order to make it more difficult for potential bombers to get near congressional buildings, including the Capitol. There has been much criticism over this. How would you respond to that?

We knew going into it that implementing these security measures would cause some minor problems with traffic. But when we weighed the consequences of a possible suicide bomber implementing an attack against the Capitol complex we felt that saving lives is the top priority at this time.

Why are roads being closed on Capitol Hill when the U.S. Capitol was not even mentioned in the intelligence that led to the recent "Orange" alert and associated with security upgrades around financial institutions in New York, New Jersey and D.C.?

Let me re-emphasize that with the exception of First Street NE, all streets on Capitol Hill remain open. We felt it was necessary to increase our security since we are a critical part of the District of Columbia and we take any threat against D.C. as a possible threat to us.

We don't react to our heightened security solely on the raising of the alert by the Department of Homeland Security. The Capitol Police receive intelligence from numerous sources including our own intelligence operation.

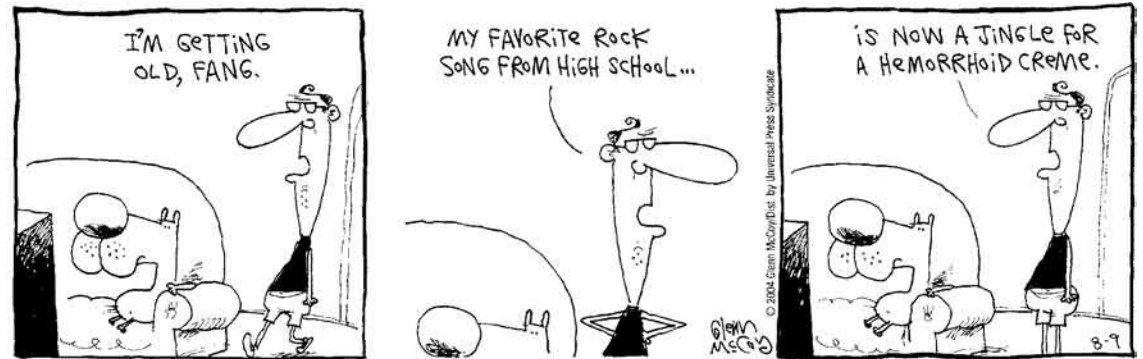

Do you have enough officers to continue to police Capitol Hill? How much is it costing? How long will it last?

How long will it last? No one knows exactly how long this will last. It's costing roughly $1.5 million per pay period which is bi-weekly. Yes, we have enough officers. They're working 12-hour shifts, six days a week. We're continually monitoring the entire situation including the concerns of our officers.

The Trouble With Tiny Feet

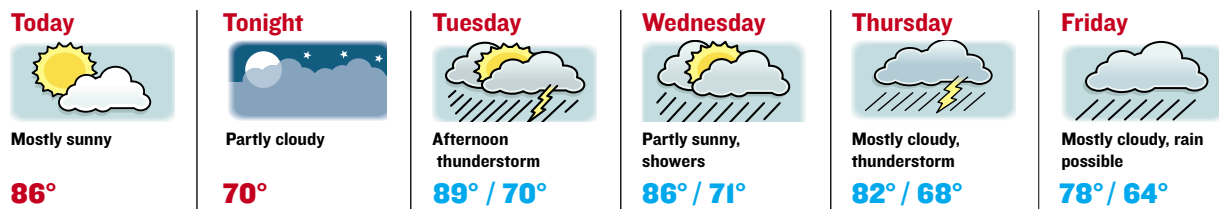

WHILE I SYMPATHIZE with the problem encountered by women wanting shoes that are size 12 or larger (Lookout, Aug. 5), I empathize with those bemoaning the disappearance of the small sizes from the shoe rack at stores. My wife, who finally graduated from a size 4 to a 4½, has not been amused by the universal tendency of stores to stock nothing less than a size 5½. The assumption that small feet on women have disappeared is not valid. Unfortunately, in the absence of small sizes, many women have been forced into the children's shoe departments, hardly appropriate for grown women except for the sizing. Let me mention to them that, contrary to the fixation on socks and hosiery where one size may, within limits, fit all, the same does not apply to shoes.

LAWSUITS

Angry Player Makes Racket

Russian tennis star ANASTASIA MYSKINA, winner of the French Open, filed a lawsuit on Friday against GQ magazine and one of its photographers, claiming GQ allowed topless photos of her to appear in a Russian magazine without her permission. The photos were taken for the October 2002 GQ, which published ones in which she appeared fully clothed. The lawsuit, which alleges that the GQ photographer sold the photos to Medved magazine and that GQ failed to stop him, seeks $8 million in damages. (AP)

Damn! I knew I shouldn't have posed topless for a random photographer.

SUFFOCATING CLICHES

Please, We Have Enough Kennedys

San Francisco Mayor GAVIN NEWSOM and his wife, television legal analyst KIMBERLY GUILFOYLE NEWSOM, are getting star treatment in the September issue of Harper's Bazaar. The "New Kennedys" spread features the former model/prosecutor posing in front of a pool table; in another, the pair spoons on a carpet. (AP)

SHAME

More Embarrassing Than Going Sockless

DON JOHNSON has been ordered to pay an Aspen, Colo., grocery store nearly $6,000 for an unpaid tab. Pitkin County District Judge Erin Fernandez-Ely said Johnson must pay $5,470 for his past-due balance at Clark's Market, along with $426.85 in interest and court costs of $101. Johnson did not file a response to Clark's lawsuit. In May his 17-acre ranch near Aspen was put on sale amid a bankruptcy filing. (AP)

MARRIAGES

George, Let's Name All Our Kids 'George'

Three generations of Bushes, including George W. and George H.W., converged in a small stone church in Kennebunkport, Maine, on Saturday to celebrate GEORGE PRESCOTT BUSH's wedding. The wedding of President Bush's nephew (aka Jeb's son) to AMANDA WILLIAMS took place under a sunny late-afternoon sky and a heavy security presence. George P. met his bride while attending law school at the University of Texas at Austin. They began dating after Bush asked her if she wanted to join him in a round of golf. (AP)

If they weren't Bushes, Amanda and George would be New Kennedys, too.

OXYCONTIN

Those Sweet, Sweet Narcotic Analgesic Blues

Country singer MINDY MCCREADY has been charged with prescription drug fraud after authorities said she used a fake prescription to obtain the pain medicine OxyContin. McCready, 28, was arrested Thursday at her home in Nashville, said the Williamson County Sheriff's Department. Investigators later learned that McCready was not a patient at the doctor's office from which the prescription purportedly originated. McCready was booked into the county jail and held on $10,000 bond. She posted bail and was released the same day. (AP)

PYTHONS

Good Pets, But Don't Leave Your Laptop Lying Around

Alice, the albino python that undulates onstage with ALICE COOPER, is lucky to be alive. It took veterinarian Richard Jacobs of Haddam, Conn., two hours last week to carefully slice open Alice to remove a 12-by-14-inch heating pad from the 8-foot snake's tummy. Hours before taking the stage at the careerbuilder.com Oakdale Theatre in Wallingford, Conn., Saturday night, Alice dined on a live rat, then swallowed the heating pad mistakenly placed in her cage. Cooper's roadies noticed Alice's massive bulge and called Alison Sloan, who helps at-risk snakes. She found a vet and lent Cooper a yellow anaconda for his gig. Cooper paid the $1,000 surgery bill. Horoscope

By Stella Wilder

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)

You're likely to get better results, more quickly than you had bargained for. This brings a surprise development.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)

Even though you may only be playing a supporting role, you'll find that your input and influence are essential.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)

Express your feelings openly and honestly, but only at the right times. You may, now and then, feel the need to clam up.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21)

This is a good day for focusing on those issues that affect you most prominently at home. A question of lifestyle may arise by the day's end.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21)

What appears before you, in a form unlike its true self, is worthy of your attention. Solve this mystery and success is yours.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)

You can take advantage of someone else's specialty and come out ahead, provided that you're willing to share your gains.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)

You may come into contact with someone who shares your overall beliefs, but who differs fundamentally in their method and approach.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)

In the near future, you may not have a chance to repeat what you can accomplish, so you're going to have to make this time count.

ARIES (March 21-April 19)

A mystery is solved, and you'll find yourself working for someone who may have been considered a rival in days or weeks past.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)

Embrace the simple things around you and don't insist on having more than is available. Be content with less.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)

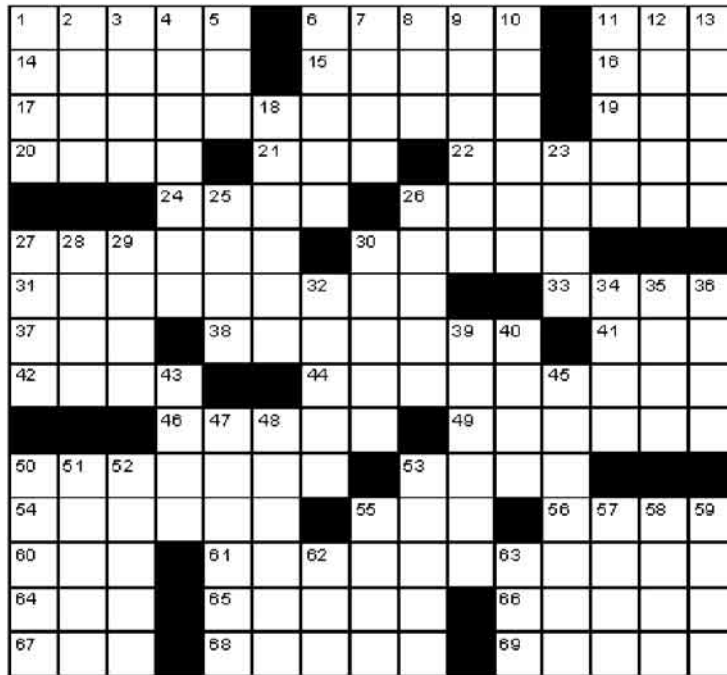

Take advantage of the position you're in and you should be able to ensure lasting success.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)

You can keep boredom at bay by simply focusing on details, and keeping yourself ready for action, as required.

Jerk Chicken with Roasted Sweet Potatoes

Serves: 4

5 Ingredients:

- 2 medium-sized sweet potatoes (about 1 lb.)
- 2 Tbsp. brown sugar
- 1 lb. boneless, skinless chicken breast
- maple syrup (about 2 Tbsp.)
- 1 – 2 tsp. Caribbean Jerk seasoning (dried)

30 Minutes:

Preheat oven to 350° F. Scrub sweet potatoes and pat dry with a paper towel. Cut in half crosswise. Then cut lengthwise into wedges or strips. Put in a plastic bag. Add 2 Tbsp. oil and 2 Tbsp. brown sugar. Toss to coat the sweet potatoes. Spread on a cookie sheet and put in the oven. If chicken breast pieces are more than 1" thick, pound flatter between two sheets of plastic wrap. Place on another lightly greased cookie sheet or baking pan. Brush both sides of chicken pieces with maple syrup and sprinkle with Jerk seasoning. Bake both potatoes and chicken for 20 minutes, turning half-way through cooking time (chicken should be 170° internal temperature). Or grill chicken and potatoes (in a grilling basket) over medium-high heat.

Oil not included in 5 ingredients.
